RESONANCE

The Music We're Made Of

---

PREMISE

Music is not entertainment. It is a biological stimulus with documented physiological effects, a property of physical reality that predates anything with ears to hear it. Humans didn't invent it. They found it. And they were built to find it.

STRUCTURE

Part I: Recognition (Foreword + Chapters 1-7)

The personal experience. What music does to us, and what that reveals about who we are.

Part II: Reverence (Chapters 8-13)

The philosophical lens. The sacred relationship between humans and sound.

Part III: Resolution (Chapters 14-26)

The scientific breakdown. Neuroscience, physics, and the argument that music is a property of reality.

Coda: Reverb (Chapters 27-30)

Where the trail leads. A final meditation on what it means if all of this is true.
